APPROPRIATION EXHAUSTED.

Report of Street Cleaning Department

Mr. Warner Stutler, the superintendent of the District street cleaning department. ers that today's service will exhaust the appropriation for the removal of snow and ice, and that unless additional funds are provided the work will have to be discontinued. Stutler, "I have been enabled to open all the crosswalks and gutters of the city and of the most important sections of the business streets; but, if it is deemed advisable to remove the remaining snow from the business streets, which, in my opinion, should certainly be done, we should have an appropriation of not less than $3,000, which amount would. I think, provide for the present work and any future emergencies that may arise during the year."

The Commissioners approved Mr. Stutler's suggestion, and transmitted to Representative Cannon, chairman of the House committee on appropriations, the draft of a joint resolution appropriating the sum continuing the work and to meet future demands.

The Status of Schofield Garrison.

To the Editor of The Evening Star: Referring to the letter of L. J. Melchior in The Star last Friday, permit me to give justice to all concerned. Circulars have been sent out by some of the officers of Schofield Garrison, stating that they are organized under an act of Congress, signed by J. B. Morton as national commander and Daniel O. Drennan as adjutant general. Gen. John M. Schofield Garrison is organized under the laws of the District. Its charter was granted by the recorder of the District. At the regular convention of the Regular Army and Navy Union, held in Kansas City October, 1897, Gen. John M.

Kansas City October, 1897, Gen. John M. Schofield Garrison, No. 28, had its charter recalled upon the presentation of proof of disloyalty to the order.

J. B. Morton, representing the expelled garrison known as Schofield Garrison, appealed to the national congress, in session at regular convention in this city, October, 1899, for reinstatement of his garrison in the order. It was left to the vote of the three garrisons in the District-Garrisons No. 139, 43 and 28. These voted to deny Schofield Garrison admission as a body, and the proceedings of the Kansas City convention stand. The Regular Army and Navy Union was organized in 1888. At the last convention in this city, October, 1899; the name was changed by inserting the word "Volunteer." This order has garrisons all through the army and navy and several garrisons of discharged soldiers, sailors and marines who have left the service. #### AMUSEMENTS.

COLUMBIA THEATER.-"The Man in the Moon" was greeted by an audience which filled the Columbia Theater to the doors last night. The piece is overshadowed by the brilliancy of the advance advertising done for it, but is, nevertheless, a colossal reminder of the lavishness of the modern spectacle. It is a Kiralfyesque entertainment, in which every other feature bows to the ballet. Great troops of young women gather and disperse; mighty exposures of painted canvas are flaunted and ures of painted canvas are flaunted and furled, and after some songs and specialties the moon sets and the procession of dazzling incoherencies is ended. The alluring title of the piece suggests a train of whimsical fancies which are not realized. The authorship is accredited to Louis Harrison and Stanislaus Stange and the music to Frederick Solomon—and Reginald De Koven! Mr. De Koven wrote the fine, scholarly music attached to "Robin Hood." But that was years ago. Mr. Stange is a gentleman of a serious literary turn, as shown by his dramatization of "Quo Vadis." Mr. Harrison has had some brief, happy moby his dramatization of "Quo Vadis." Mr. Harrison has had some brief, happy mo-ments in comic composition and Mr. Fred-eric Solomon, who is stage manager, mu-seems so patiently resigned to his lot, so industrious and so very contented, that he is a delight to the philosopher.

The credit for the first good laugh goes to Frank Whitman, who, as the violinist with music to fit all emotions, offered a splendid satire on the musical accompaniment to melodrama. The house was amiable and receptive and there were many episodes in the course of the evening which moved the people to liberal applause. The credit ballet was a dainty and beautiful creation; the songs, "Sadie," "Sue" and "In Spite of Puck and Judge," were entertaining. Sam Bernard's monologues tertaining. Sam Bernard's monologues were thoroughly amusing, the dancing of La Petite Adelaide was graceful as ever and the allegorical tableaux in the last act and the allegorical tableaux In the last act were brilliant and imposing. Julius Steger had a tenor topical song in which he sang with great feeling that "There is nothing-with like this in the Moon-uh, dear boy-uh!" Mr. Steger would be languishing and emotional in a cake walk. He is a capital vocalist nevertheless, and was another of the features that won approval. Louis Wesley gave an amusing imitation of a tough song and dance man.

Despite its wealth of talent, the production is a spectacle first and last. The comedy and music are subordinated to the scenery and the hordes of amazon marchers, who at times crowd the stage so thickly that they seem in danger of falling over into the augmented orchestra. The cossumes are bandeene and to some intervene Barnet and Corliss, the co-authors of the piece, are to be congratulated upon their work. The lines throughout are bright and humorous while the music, in addition to being original, contains much that is far above the ordinary. Mr. Barnet has whipped into shape a clever comedy-burlesque, which exploits the tricks and trials of three ingenious rogues to secure money without working. rogues to secure money without working.

The scenery and costumes, without being extravagant or heavy, were-adequate and in good taste. After exploiting the eleverness of book and music, additional words of praise are due the company. It would be hard to find a more elever trie of ladies for a musical clever trio of ladies for a musical y than Adele Ritchie, Nellie Braggins comedy than Adele Ritchie, Nellie Braggins and Marie Cahill. All are pretty and can sing and act. Miss Ritchie's solo, "The Man Behind the Gun," was given with an enthusiasm that called forth prolonged applause and numerous encores. Merry Marie Cahill, the comedienne of the company, was coupled up with Raymond Hichoock and Edmund Lawrence, "The Three Little Lambs," and through her individual work on entirely original lines, contributed greatly toward the evening's success. This trio's presentation of a short burlesque sketch on by toward the evening's success. This, those presentation of a short burlesque sketch on "Becky Sharpe" created unbounded laughter, Miss Cahill's mimicry of Minnie Maddern Fiske being close enough to the original as to create wonder as well as merriment. Mr. Hitchcock is the leading comemail as to create wonder as well as merriments Mr. Hitchcock is the leading comedian of the company, and his efforts were well received, although a little more life in the part would not be amiss. Mr. Lawrence catches the right idea of musical comedy and works on the same lines with Jimmy Powers, being on the move constantly and never hesitating to throw in little bits of by-play. An old and welcome face was that of W. T. Carleton, Mr. Carleton sang the song, "Long Ago," with Miss Braggins, and the veteran demonstrated, both by his voice and looks, that he is as clever as in days of yore. Others of the company deserving mention are Mr. Philp, Mr. Whiffin, Harold Vizard, Tom Hadaway and Miss Palmer. The chorus was noticeable for its good looks and cleverness in singing and dancing, every one of the girls being young and pretty.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Vera de Noie's production of "Devil's Island" at the Academy this week is, according to the program, 'founded on the famous Dreyfus case.' With the exception of the cardinal features of the case—that is, the accusation, degradation and conviction of a captain in the French army and his confinement in exile on Devil's Island—there is little in the play that developed in the two trials of Dreyfus. The details of the troubles of that officer were neither romantic nor harrowing enough for the makers of modern melodrama. However, what has been sacrificed in fact has been more than atoned for in action and thrilling scenes that might have taken place in reality—but did not. "Devil's Island" was put out during the Dreyfus agitation looking to a revision and a new trial. Who will say it was not much more novelesque that the condemned officer should be rescued from the island cage by the beautiful Countess Nina Petrovsky just as he was about to be blown into smithereens by the designing Prince Orloff than to be taken off in commonplace fashlon on a war vessel of his country and afterward pardoned? Thus the play was made to end in the first dramatic manner long before the result of the second trial was known, and thus it remains. "Devil's Island" was seen here last year, the production this season being practically the same in cast. A large audience greeted it last night and the applause was most liberal. Miss Vera de Nole, who collaborated with Arthur Hall in writing the play, has the leading feminine role and her work, together with that of Leander Blanden as the accused officer, is worthy of high praise. The others, notwithstanding their noble cognomens, did not reach. The play ACADEMY OF MUSIC.-Vera de Noie's the accused officer, is worthy of high praise. The others, notwithstanding their noble cognomens, did not reach. The play is mounted handsomely and the scenic ef-fects were elaborate and realistic.

BIJOU THEATER.—Any conservative auditor at the Bijou Theater yesterday would have had no hesitation in declaring that the first part called for the attention of the police. Some features of the burlesque are entertaining. The specialty arranged by Sam Adams as a travesty on Mormon Roberts and his six wives was cleverly conceived, and well done by members of the company. Some features of the ollo are excellent. Frye and Fields, in a comedy sketch, were pleasing, and Evans and Vidocq satisfied the majority. Mohn's dog circus was fair, and Miss Clarice Vance sang negro melodies in a satisfactory mandog circus was fair, and Miss Clarice Vanc-sang negro melodies in a satisfactory man ner. Wills and Collins presented a laugh able sketch, but it remained for the Take zawa's imperial Japanese troupe of acrobat to win the greatest favor. There are tel of these, and some of their work is mar

KERNAN'S LYCEUMTHEATER.—There is a really good entertainment at Kernan's this week. It is Miaco's City Club Company, an organization that has long since made an enviable name for itself. It is refreshing to see a burlesque that makes some pretense at fun. The company is decidedly stronger than when last seen here, and the addition of several good comedians keeps the entertainment enlivened. Dan Crimmins, Lew Palmer and Edgar Bixley are the merrymakers, and Rosa Gore was good in her impersonation of an old maid. The ollo was good and introduced several new faces. Wren and Hughes opened the list with a number of rag time songs and dances, then came St. Clair and Loreno in a clever sketch. Miss Adelina Roattino had no difficulty in winning the audience with her vocal selections. Von Pretzwitz Palms exhibited his posing models, and Crimmins, Gore and Bixley made a decided hit in a ludicrous oddity. Lew Palmer, always a favorite, repeated his imitations, and worked in some spicy. Jokes. After the burlesque the Tobascoscope was introduced and showed KERNAN'S LYCEUMTHEATER.-Ther

MISS PITTS' LECTURE,—Miss Pitts concluded her course on mediaeval England at the Wimodaughsis last evening with "The Founding of the House of Commons." Beginning with a description of the spirit and conditions of the thirteenth century, she gave a picture of the life of the times—of the towns, peopled with thrifty, industrious artisans and wealthy merchants who were learning in the exercise of municipal liberties the rudiments of self-government; of the want and woe and wickedness gathered in the slums, that in all mediaeval towns were-rigidly restricted to a space outside the walls; of the Franciscan friars who came to rescue the dwellers there from wretchedness and sin and to preach throughout England the social doctrine of universal brotherhood and the political doctrine of the responsibility of kings. In contrast with this picture was another—the court of the weak, faithless, insatiably avaricious Henry III, while in stormy parliaments the barons and prelates of England joined in vain attempts to secure redress of national grievances. This was followed by a rapid sketch of the career of Simon de Montfort, the man who in the last year of the constitutional war called to the aid of the national party the great middle class hitherto shut out from national legislation, and summoned for the first time to an English parliament representatives elected by the people. The lecture closed with a brief account of Earl Simon's defeat and death at the battie of Evesham and the spirit in which his work went forward after he was gone.

An organization was effected in 1896 and many of the meetings have been of great interest. The present officers are: J. F. Johnson, president; Henry N. Copp, vice president, and J. H.
